

NUSBAUM'S

Clarksburg's Standard Store For Men and Boys'

Established in 1879.

NUSBAUM'S

The Greatest, Most Stupendous, By Far the LARGEST REMOVAL SALE

Partial Description of Our New Home

United States Senator Nathan Goff will shortly erect a modern four-story business block, where the Nusbaum clothing store on South Third street now stands. The contract has been let and the building is to be completed by January 1 next. The architecture is by Holmboe and Lafferty and that firm will supervise the erection of the building. The structure will have a frontage of thirty-seven feet and will be seventy-five feet deep, covering merely the site of the old store building. It is to be of steel, stone and brick and will cost in the neighborhood of $50,000.

The contractor is the Hiram Lloyd Building Construction Company, of St. Louis, who erected the Washington Irving high school building and representatives will arrive here Monday to arrange for the erection of the building, which will be begun within the next three or four weeks. The Nusbaum concern has been notified to vacate within the next two weeks, but as its immense stock of clothing reaching an invoice of fully $150,000 will be hard to place, it is doubtful whether the rooms will be vacated inside of three or four weeks.

The new building will be occupied by the Nusbaum Company, which in the meantime will have a store at another point in the city besides its West Main street store.

The Nusbaum store first opened for business in Clarksburg in the year 1879, or thirty-seven years ago and it has been in business here ever since. Mannie Nusbaum has grown old with the store in point of age, but more and more progressive in spirit with the more and more modern and larger stores. His associates are also modern business men, and the Nusbaum trade is vast. The concern has been clamoring for several years for a modern business place, but Senator Goff desired to acquire adjacent space which finally it was found could not be obtained.

The new store building will be strictly modern in every particular. The interior will be so arranged as to make the conduct of the store easy and speedy. There will be elevators and every other equipment which goes with a modern city store.—(From Clarksburg Sunday Telegram, August 13, 1916).

"Good-Bye Old Store"

GOOD BYE, OLD HOME! We've spent thirty-seven busy years preparing for the coming event. There will be only about ten business days under the old roof where we have been meeting you so long. In the very near future we will open up for you the magnificent new home which you helped us to build. It will be the same Nusbaum's—in a new dress. Bigger, better, but the same homelike atmosphere will fill the new store. The same comfortable, homelike feeling will be there. The same homelike welcome will await you. The same high-grade merchandise will be sold, only in greater assortments. Every bit of good will which we have accumulated in almost a half century, we want to move with us. But we want to move only such merchandise as is strictly new and in unbroken assortments. All other high-grade articles of apparel will be sacrificed in this stupendous Ten-day Removal Sale, starting Thursday morning, August 24th. Thousands upon thousands of dollars' worth of the very highest and most representative merchandise ever shown will be offered at such low prices that the builders, contractors, carpenters and others, will see us vacate on the day agreed upon.
